HULL STUDIES CHANGES IN NEUTRALITY

Confers With Army and Navy Chiefs on Arming of Merchant Ships.

TALKS WITH FDR TODAY

Gets Data From Other Cabinet Members Before Discussion With Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON — Following an early morning conference with the secretaries of war and navy and the chiefs of the armed forces, Secretary of State Cordell Hull today conferred with President Roosevelt.

Modification of the neutrality act to permit the arming of American merchant ships and entry of these vessels into combat zones, as well as a review of the general international situation; was the chief topic of discussion at the White House conference.

Prior to the White House meeting, Secretary Hull, Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of Navy Knox, Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, and Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, conferred with Hull at the state department.

In addition to discussing administration plans for revision of the neutrality act, Hull received from the other cabinet members and the chiefs of the armed forces the latest developments in their respective fields. He brought this information to the president.

Plans are taking definite shape to rush every possible ounce of war material to the aid of Soviet Russia in her desperate stand against the consolidated pressure of Hitler's Nazi armies. Hull was prepared to advise the president on progress of negotiations now in progress in Moscow between Soviet Premier Josef Stalin and the Russian high command and the special U. S.-British mission, headed by W. Averell Harriman and Lord Beaverbrook.

The secretary of state also was primed to report to Mr. Roosevelt on latest developments in the somewhat strained relations between this government and Japan over maintenance of the status quo in the Far East and unimpeded shipment of war goods to Russia through Japanese waters into the port of Vladivostok. Joseph Grew, U. S. ambassador to Tokyo, had held highly important conferences with Japanese Foreign Minister Toyoda over the week-end.

From London, it was believed

SETS PRIORITY

Nelson Places Restrictions on Copper, Brass Scrap.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Donald M Nelson, OPM priorities director, today placed copper and brass scrap under full priorities control as he moved for the first time to make hoarding unlawful.

In the order, Nelson prohibited dealers from accepting scrap unless the dealer has turned over his inventory. "These restriction," he explained, "are designed to make hoarding by dealers unlawful."

It is the first time such restrictions had been imposed since the defense program started 16 months ago. It was indicated in other quarters that similar restrictions soon may be clamped down on other scrap metals where there is hoarding.

Shoppers Act To Beat New Tax Deadline

Blow Falls Tomorrow on Long List of Items As Defense Aid.

Mansfield shoppers, mostly women, carried their own packages today or made sure of delivery by the time the stores close tonight.

The reason—Uncle Sam's new defense tax—that adds 10 per cent to the retail price of furs, jewelry and cosmetics starting tomorrow, Oct. 1.

The shoppers also picked up their "lay-aways" in these three lines for the government says that unless the purchased item is delivered before Oct. 1, the tax must be paid on it.

All the new excise levies of the $3,533,400,000 tax bill go into effect tomorrow but the taxes on furs, jewelry and cosmetics are the only ones that apply directly to retail transactions.

You don't have to pay cash today to escape the tax, but you must take the goods home. This means that people who have bought on the "lay-away" plan had better get their purchases home by tonight, or the government will claim that the purchases were not completed until after Oct. 1 and will collect the tax.

It won't do much good to rush to the stores to beat the other new excises however, because they are to be paid by the manufacturers. These include new

FIGHT $10,000 FIRE AT SHILOH

Firemen Keep Elevator Fire From Spreading to Homes; Cause Undetermined.

Fire of undetermined origin kept fire apparatus from two villages busy four and one-half hours early this morning fighting a blaze in a grain elevator at nearby Shiloh. The fire threatened to spread to nearby houses, and caused an estimated loss of $10,000.

The flames were discovered at about 1 a. m., and fire trucks were summoned from Shiloh and Plymouth.

Spreading from the elevator, the blaze quickly consumed the coal shed, and two storage bins, gutting the metal office building on the way.

When firemen arrived, the flames had made such headway that firemen confined their efforts to guarding nearby homes.

Albert James, owner of the elevator, said that some of the wheat was still burning at noon today and that the heat of the blaze had damaged about 400 or 500 feet of track along the railroad siding, warping the rails and burning the ties.

Although the entire property was destroyed, with the exception of a corn silo still standing, James said that firemen were able to get trucks out of the garage in time to save them.

He said that the loss was partly covered by insurance.

OTHER SLASHES COMING

Washington Warns Reductions on Other Electrical Products Being Worked Out.

Production of mechanical refrigerators at the Mansfield plant of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company will be cut 43.2 per cent under the average monthly output for the year which ended June 30 in accordance with a new OPM order issued today.

OPM Priorities Director Donald M. Nelson in Washington ordered all manufacturers of household mechanical refrigerators to make the cut and warned that similar limitation programs are being worked out for other articles such as washing machines, electrical appliances and vacuum cleaners, an Associated Press dispatch from the capital said.

Whether the new order would immediately cause drastic changes in the Mansfield plant was not clear today. Frank R. Kohnstamm, sales manager of the merchandising division, announced that his company has not received official notice of the order as yet and that no change in production would be made until it was received.

Kohnstamm said that it was not possible to predict the effect of the order on production here, pointing out that the 43.2 per cent curtailment might be in ordered slow stages or in one immediate slash.

If the production cut is ordered in slow stages, Kohnstamm said it might be possible in the mean-

NEW SAFEGUARD

Akron Plant Develops Speedy Seal for Plane Tanks.

AKRON—(INS)—Greater protection against fuel leakage and resultant explosions caused by bullet puncture or crashes of airplanes and other combat vehicles, today was revealed by P. W. Litchfield, chairman of the board of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, who announced the processing of a new rubber derivative to replace aluminum tank linings now being used.

"A plane's fuel tanks are among its most vulnerable spots," Litchfield explained. "If they are punctured by bullets and there is a substantial gasoline leakage the ship is likely to go down in flames. The new lining will almost instantly seal the puncture and is better than anything being used in foreign ships today."

Hunt for Slayers of Golf Star Intensifies

MARION MILEY. WHERE MISS MILEY DIED

Police in Lexington, Ky., intensified their search for two thieves who invaded the fashionable Lexington Country club and shot and killed Marion Miley, 27, well-known golf star, and seriously wounded her mother, Mrs. Fred Miley, manager of the club. The two masked robbers stole $145 in receipts before the shootings. The hallway where Miss Miley was slain is pictured. Best clues were that two escaped Georgia convicts, one of whom had a weakness for the luxurious life of country clubs, may have been implicated. They were being sought.

OIL GUNS FOR DUCK SHOOTING

Mansfield Hunters Prepare For Opening of Season at 6:23 A. M. Tomorrow.

Tomorrow at 6:23 a. m. scores of Mansfield nimrods will shoulder arms for the opening of the waterfowl season.

Running until Nov. 29, the season permits shooting of ducks, geese, brant and coot with a duck limit of 10 daily and a total limit of 20 waterfowl in possession after the first day.

Meanwhile State Conservation officers in Columbus warned hunters that shooting of waterfowl is only permitted between the official weather bureau sunrise and 4 p. m.

Charles Kimmel, Richland county game warden, said that hunters may compute the official sunrise hour each day during the season by adding one minute for each day to the official starting time, 6:34 a. m., for tomorrow.

Mansfield sporting goods salesmen today reported a greater interest in the opening of the duck season than ever before. Guns and ammunition, they claim, are selling faster than in previous years.

Most of the interest, they continue, is in the Mifflin lake shooting area. Opened last season the district in which hunters may bag game includes all of Mifflin lake south of U. S. route 30.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Command of the fifth corps area changes tomorrow when Lt. Gen. Daniel Van Voorhis, now in command of the Caribbean defense command and the Panama canal department, comes to Fort Hayes to succeed Maj. Gen. Clement A. Trott.

General Trott, who has been at Fort Hayes since November, left Columbus yesterday with Mrs. Trott to spend October at their cottage on a Minnesota lake. He will be 64, the statutory retirement age, Dec. 14, and will be retired officially Dec. 31.

General Van Voorhis is a native of Zanesville, O., and was fifth corps area commander from October, 1938, until January, 1940, when he left to take command of the Canal Zone.

Former Convict, Companion Sought By Police After Kentucky Murder.

(By United Press)

LEXINGTON — Police hunted an escaped convict desperado who "goes in for golf and dancing," and his murderous companion today as the investigation of the murder of Marion Miley, top-flight woman golfer, was spurred by rewards totaling $3,500.

The convict was Forest Turner, 24, apparently, from police circulars, a debonair crook with a fondness for the easy conviviality of country clubs. He was said to have a cousin here and may be a local boy and known to his victim, who was brought up on the rolling green expansas of the swank Lexington Country club where she was slain.

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—John Dalton, 31, was charged with assault and battery today because police said he bit off part of the right ear of Calvin Broughton.

Child Lost In Forest Fails To Answer Amplified Calls

(By Associated Press)

CONWAY, N. H.—A distraught father's appeal over an amplifying system in a forest fastness went unanswered today by five-year-old Pamela Hollingworth, missing in near-freezing temperatures since she wandered from a picnic Sunday.

Hundreds of volunteers carrying lanterns searched through the night for the child, who was clad only in a green sunsuit and red sneakers.

Riding in a sound-truck along narrow woodland roads, Joseph E. Hollingworth, Lowell, Mass., lumber company superintendent, shouted time and time again:

"Pammy, this is daddy calling. Don't be afraid, Pam. Don't be afraid.

"If you can hear me, come to me or go to the men in the woods who are looking for you.

"If you are stuck anywhere and can't move, yell and the men will come to you."

Hopes were raised by the finding of child-sized footprints yesterday at a sawdust pile east of Iona Lake, about a half mile from the spot where Pamela and her family were picnicking.

Woodsmen said the prints bore markings recembling those on the soles of her sneakers, but hopes dwindled as the temperature fell and the night wore on without further trace of her.

Equipped with five portable short wave radio sets, foresters were aided by two circling airplanes and a detachment of 100 soldiers from Fort Devens, Mass. Pamela's dog "Shag" accompanied them, but couldn't pick up her trail.

Churchill Sees Switch In Nazi Battle Strategy

Says Germans May Go on Defensive In Russia, Open Attacks on Egypt, Africa, Even England; Finds Enemy Short of Planes.

(By Associated Press)

Prime Minister Winston Churchill, disclosing that Britain has "several times" considered an invasion of the continent, predicted today that the war would last at least through 1942 and warned that Adolf Hitler might fall back on the defensive in the struggle with Russia and lash out simultaneously at Egypt, Spain, Africa and England itself.

In optimistic vein, however, Churchill declared that Britain had now seized the initiative from Germany in the air.

The reich, he said flatly, is suffering a serious air shortage—presumably from pilots and planes lost in the 14-weeks-old campaign in Russia.

As Churchill spoke, the Russians reported that Red armies defending Leningrad had recaptured a city on the approaches to the old czarist capital and hurled the Germans back "a significant distance."

The city, designated only as "B," fell to Soviet troops after 12 hours of violent hand-to-hand and house-to-house fighting, said the Russians, announcing also that many other communities on Leningrad's outskirts had been retaken in mass counter-attacks.

Red Star, Soviet army newspaper, said the Germans had made no gain for a fortnight in the siege of the great northern metropolis.

Posing the question "Where will Hitler turn next?" Churchill mentioned the possibility of vast new assaults against the Egyptian Nile, North Africa, Spain and the British Isles.

"It would certainly be in his (Hitler's) power while standing on the defensive in the east to undertake all of these enterprises on a great scale together at one time," he said.

Coincidentally, German military quarters in Berlin stressed the importance of statements in the Nazi press that the Russian campaign might run into the winter months.

Reviewing the war on the third anniversary of the ill-fated Munich conference, Churchill declared that "the enemy's only shortage—a very serious shortage—is in the air." Elsewhere, he said, Germany still holds the initiative.

Churchill said he could make no comment on the possibility of a British invasion of the continent "without giving information to the enemy," but he cautioned that even the advent of winter would give no assurance "that the

REPORT FLEET FIGHTS UNREST

Moscow Dispatches Say Ships Bombard Towns; Czech Arrests Reported.

(By United Press)

LONDON—Mounting unrest in Axis-occupied Europe brought Russian reports today that Italian fleet units had bombarded rebellious Montenegrin towns and villages on the Adriatic coast and that thousands of Czechs had been arrested by Nazi secret police.

The Moscow radio broadcast reports that Fascist warships went into action to aid in quelling rebellion in dismembered Yugoslavia.

Italian warships, it was reported, steamed along the coast, shelling centers of dissidence while Fascist warplanes attacked inland villages. Some villages were said to have been wiped out.

The Italian action, the Russian radio said, followed patriotic uprisings in which several Italian garrisons were wiped out and local officials appointed by the Italian authorities were killed

The Russian reports said Yugoslav unrest was so widespread the Germans moved in three fresh divisions of regular troops, approximately 45,000 men.

GREET WINDSORS

Cowboys Ride From Adjoining Ranches For Welcome.

HIGH RIVER, Alta. — (INS) — Greeted affectionately by Canadians as "Eddie" and "Wallie," the Duke and Duchess of Windsor came home to a warm welcome today at the duke's hugh EP ranch near High River.

The royal couple spent the night at this jumping off place for the ranch, and expected to reach the sprawling 12-room ranchhouse on the EP property by noon. They plan to spend ten days at the ranch before heading back to the Bahamas where the duke is governor general.

Last evening, as the three-car ducal entourage neared High River, some 40 cowboys from ranches adjoining the duke's properties rode out to greet the couple, driving before them about 500 head of wild steers.

Drinkers Eye Tax, Hike Liquor Sales Here 25 Per Cent

Sales at state liquor stores in Mansfield increased 25 per cent Saturday and yesterday, managers said, as Mansfielders began laying in a supply to avoid the federal liquor tax which becomes effective Wednesday.

"We have had a big jump in business and expect it to continue Tuesday," Frank C. Poling, manager of the South Park street store, said yesterday. He estimated the increase at 25 per cent Saturday and possibly more yesterday.

Sales are limited to five gallons per customer at the South Park street retail store, Poling said.

A nation-wide increase in sales was reported, and it was estimated that thousands of persons have enough liquor stored away at home so they won't be affected by the new tax for two or three months. The tax in some cases will be as much as 25 cents a quart.

THREE INDICTED

Face Murder Charges in Pair of Ashtabula Killings.

ASHTABULA — (U.P.) — Nick Nemick, 42, and his 31-year-old wife were under indictment by the Ashtabula county grand jury, today, charged with first degree murder of Nemick's 62-year-old mother, Mrs. Catherine Nemick, of Eagleville, last June.

The grand jury also indicted Judson Oates, 57, charging first degree murder in the fatal shooting of Howard Hamrick, 49, at the Oates home Aug. 1.

Hikes Richland's Red Cross Quota From 15,000 to 22,000

Richland county chapter of the Red Cross had its annual Roll Call quota stepped up from 15,000 to 22,000 members today as the American Red Cross called for a national membership "on the basis of a Roll Call approximating that of the World war—at least double that of last year."

The all-out membership enrollment this year means that the county must increase its membership over the past year by approximately 9,000, according to Miss Lenore Van Gundia, executive secretary, who received notification from national headquarters today regarding the increase in quota.

Mobilization of workers to conduct the Roll Call opening Armistice Day, Nov. 11, and ending Nov. 30, will begin at once, Miss Van Gundia said, as a larger organization will be necessary than that scheduled to handle the original quota.

L. W. Birch, roll call chairman, who saw last year's drive for 10,000 members go over the top by 3,086 under his supervision, has already held one meeting with Roll Call workers and will now set about increasing his workers' organization.

The chapter has been informed by national headquarters that particular emphasis must be placed on a house-to-house check of the residential areas and upon group enrollment of all firms, organizations and industries.

WARNS OF NAZI MOVE TO OPEN NEW WAR FRONT

Churchill Says Egypt, Africa and Even England May Be New Hitler Objectives.

Bluntly, Churchill informed Italy that British warplanes would "bomb Rome as heavily as possible if the course of the war should render such action convenient and helpful."

London military quarters gave a more optimistic picture of the bloody struggle on the eastern front, reporting that "there is no indication of any new German advance anywhere."

Hitler's invasion armies were still smashing at the Russian Crimean, attempting to slash through the four-mile-wide Perekop isthmus linking the peninsula with the U. S. S. R. mainland, but were making scant headway.

Hitler's high command reported Nazi troops had stormed and captured 210 Russian pillboxes "on the northern sector of the east front" apparently in the assault on Leningrad—and declared that Italian troops had annihilated strong Soviet forces east of the Dnieper river, in the Ukraine. The Italian high command said Fascist troops crushed four Russian divisions—about 60,000 men—and and took 5,000 prisoners.

In Berlin, a Nazi military spokesman said cryptically that there would be "little news from the eastern front for the next few days" for "certain reasons." German newspapers emphasized the prospects of a winter compaign and told how the German soldier could overcome the rigors of the Russian winter.

Soviet dispatches said Russia's Red armies had struck two blows against the Nazi invaders—a tank-led attack on the northwest front in which 1,500 Germans were killed or wounded, and another attack in which 600 Nazi were slain.

Germany's grim measures to subdue nations struggling against the bonds of conquest rolled up more than a score of new executions.

Exactly three years after the doom of little Czecho-Slovakia was sealed at Munich, the Germans announced that Nazi firing squads had shot down 24 Czechs, and the Berlin radio reported the execution of a Frenchman in Paris on conviction of illegally possessing firearms.

Nazi spokesmen bitterly assailed London and Moscow for the wave of unrest spreading through the German-dominated continent, declaring that they were to blame for rebel flare-ups which led to swift German counter-measures in Bohemia and Moravia and elsewhere.

"London especially tried to start something in Paris, Norway and Holland, but it didn't work," a Berlin spokesman said.

The executions came sometime within 48 hours after declaration of a state of civil emergency in six populous districts of the Bohemia-Moravia protectorate by the new Reich's protector, Reinhard Heydrich.

The Germans said three former Czech generals were among those shot and named them as "leading men in the opposition group which had as its goal the re-establishment of an independent Czech state."

It was three years ago early this morning that the political heads of Germany, Britain, France and Italy signed the Munich agreement permitting Germany to occupy gradually parts of Czechoslovakia's Sudeten area.

The anniversary of Munich—from which the late British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain returned with the proud boast of "peace with honor . . . peace for our time"—found the German legions deep in Russia and admittedly facing the rigors of a Russian winter campaign.

The anniversary also found the British air force over German territory after its most energetic raids of the war against Hitler's Axis partner, Italy. This time the ports of Stettin, from which German materials sail for the Russian front, and Hamburg were targets of the RAF.

In Moscow, the problems of British and American aid to Russia were broken down into groups—army, navy, air force, transport, raw materials and medicine—and experts were assigned to supply the various needs.

Josef Stalin conferred again and at length with the heads of the three delegations: Lord Beaverbrook, W. Averell Harriman and Vyacheslav Molotov.

The latest indication that the Germans expect to fight this winter in Russia was the statement of authorized sources in Berlin that the German army is turning to Finland's famous Sauna, or steam-bath, to harden soldiers for snowy fighting and to combat lice.

In the Far East, Chinese field dispatches announced the recapture of Toishan, tungsten-producing railroad city in Kwangtung province 60 miles airline west of Hongkong.

The Japanese simultaneously said they had executed a strategic withdrawal from the area after seizing or burning Chinese war materials.

Sees Cause For 'Bitterness'

ROME—(INS)—The situation on the Italian "home front" is such as to justify "bitterness" on the part of Italians who have "worthy feelings," Roberto Farinacci, former Fascist party chief and militant extremist member of the Fascist Grand council, declared today in a speech to families of men called to the colors.

"A sharp distinction must be made between the actual battlelines and the home front," he said in apparent reference to the effect of recent decrees drastically extending food and other rationing.

"On the home front, those who have worthy feelings have cause for some bitterness."

Late, But Better Late Than Never

Better late than never, scores of motorists jammed the Richland county Auto club this morning in a hurried last-minute attempt to obtain 1942 permits to drive, as shown in photo above. Yesterday 1,869 people crowded into the tiny office as total sales for this year rose to 16,053, topping last year's sales to date by 568. Midnight tonight is the deadline for last year's permits. The Auto club will remain open until 8 p. m. today to accommodate last-minute applicants.

Report Torpedo Hits Battleship Nelson

LONDON—(AP)—The British admiralty said today an aerial torpedo-hit on the British battleship Nelson, the loss of a fighter plane crew and sinking of a motor vessel constituted the only cost of moving an important convoy through the central Mediterranean under a week-end running attack by Italian planes.

Thirteen of the raiders were declared to have been destroyed.

(Italians said yesterday that three British cruisers and at least three merchantmen were sunk and that a battleship believed to be the Nelson was damaged. They acknowledged that eight Italian planes were missing but said six British planes had fallen.)

A torpedo launched by one of the Fascist raiders Saturday slightly reduced the speed of the 16-year-old Nelson, it was said, but there were no casualties among her crew of about 1,360 men.

The Nelson is a vessel of 33,950 tons. She was commissioned in 1925.

Report Turks Refuse Chrome to Nazis

ANKARA, Turkey —(UP)— Authoritative informants said today that Turkey had refused to sell Germany vitally needed chrome for its war industry as part of a trade agreement which Karl Clodious, Germany's ace economic negotiator, had come here to negotiate.

There were indications, informants said, that Turkey's decision was final. But Baron Franz Von Papen, German ambassador, arrived by airplane from Istanbul late yesterday and at once went to the foreign office with Clodious for a two-hour conference with Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu. Saracoglu went from the conference to a cocktail party at the British embassy.

Signature of the Turkish-German trade agreement was now expected within a week, informants said. They reported that it would call for an impressive volume of goods over a period of one year.

In practise, however, it was said that the volume would be only a fraction of that provided for because Germany was not in position to arrange transport facilities.

taxes on sporting goods, cameras, phonograph records and a number of other items, as well as increased taxes on such things as automobiles.

Theoretically, the consumer won't have to pay the new tax on these items until goods actually manufactured after Oct. 1 are sold at retail. Actually, of course, some merchants may boost prices of these items earlier.

If it's any consolation the extra jolt in the income tax won't be felt until next March 15, when the first quarterly installment of the 1941 tax will be due.

Meanwhile, word from Washington said the treasury was prepared to crack down on any "tax profiteers"—dealers who attempt to reap larger profits by misrepresenting the new federal excise taxes which go into effect tomorrow.

The bureau of internal revenue, an official said, will seek prosecution of:

1. Any merchant, for example, who increases the price of an article 20 per cent to cover a 10 per cent tax, and then advertises that the entire increase is due to added taxation.

2. Any dealer, who by purchasing in large quantities, undersells smaller competitors and calls attention to his accomplishment by telling the public: "We absorb the tax."

The bureau is relying on its recently-increased staff of field agents and upon the consumer public to detect law violations. The office of price administration also plans to watch price increases closely.

The revenue code provides a maximum fine of $1,000 for dealers falsely blaming high prices on the new federal levies.

NEUTRALITY ACT CHANGE TALKED

Hull Confers With Army, Navy Chiefs Before Talk With President.

Hull also had available a comprehensive report from Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's special envoy to the Vatican, on his recent conversations with Pope Pius XII, in the course of which he presented a special message from the president.

Tomorrow, Vice President Wallace and Speaker Rayburn have been requested to lead Democratic congressional leaders to the White House for final word from the president on the desired extent of neutrality act revision.

Although Senator McKellar (D., Tenn.) has a resolution pending to repeal the neutrality law outright, best advance information was that the administration desired to retain certain features.

Authority to arm American merchantmen and send them into now restricted combat zones with war goods for Britain and Russia appeared to be the administration's immediate goal. Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Connally, Texas, already has informed the upper house he is prepared to sponsor such legislation. Informal polls indicate that the administration has ample votes—although non-interventionists may delay action in the senate where debate is unlimited.

President Roosevelt will speak briefly over the radio Friday night in connection with the national mobilization for human needs, which annually launches nation-wide community chest drives. The president will talk not more than five minutes after introduction by Tom M. Smith, St. Louis banker who heads up the mobilization, and Wendell Willkie, 1940 Republican presidential candidate, will be the other featured speaker.

Orders 43 Per Cent Reduction In Production; Westinghouse Awaits Word.

time for Westinghouse officials to get government contracts for defense articles to replace the refrigerator program.

Seven hundred workers in the refrigerator cabinet assembly department were placed on furlough last Friday because raw materials for production were not available. The materials are restricted for domestic production by priorities regulations.

Approximately 4,300 other plant workers went on a two-shift four-hour day at the same time as the furlough was announced. The plant curtailed operations from its regular eight-hour day and three shifts to a four-hour day and three shifts on Labor Day.

Seven hundred of the plant's workers are expected to be put to work on the production of 10,000 pairs of binoculars as soon as the necessary machinery is set up in the new warehouse. The company was awarded a $3,170,000 contract for the binoculars early last month.

Officials of the OPM division of civilian supply said the impact of the limitation order would be felt principally in cities which produce 50 per cent of the electric and gas refrigerators in this country — Mansfield, Cincinnati and Dayton.

Mansfield has already been surveyed by the OPM in a program to relieve threatened idleness in cities where priorities restrictions are curtailing production. The OPM program would attempt to place qualified workers in defense jobs, train others for defense work and direct additional defense contracts into the areas affected.

Herman H. Lind, Cleveland, district coordinator of the OPM's contract distribution division, in heading the recent "defense caravan" which stopped in Mansfield said at the time that Mansfield should find it easy to adapt itself to defense production.

The new refrigerator order was based on a recommendation by Director Leon Henderson of the OPM's civilian supply division that a 12-month curtailment program be worked out which would allow the industry to produce only 2,007,000 units during the year beginning Aug. 1, compared with 3,670,000 units last year.

Thirty factories employing 45,000 workers will feel the curtailment imposed by Priorities Director Donald M. Nelson as a means of conserving steel and other strategic materials for defense needs.

It was the second drastic cut imposed on an industry producing durable consumers goods. Automobile production for December recently was cut 48.4 per cent.

This curtailment was expected to release 175,000 tons of steel in the 12-month of production of warships, cargo vessels, tanks and other defense items, as well as considerable quantities of aluminum, brass, chromium, copper, nickel, tin, zinc, mica and rubber.

Monthly quotas for the refrigerator industry will total 175,519 units for each of the five months August to December, 1941, inclusive, as compared with average monthly output of 309,234 units in the 12 months ended last June 30.

Because of seasonal production variations, the curtailed output will be only 2 per cent under production for the last five months of 1940, although considerably under the level of recent months. However, production in the first seven months of 1942 is to be leveled off to a large extent, instead of following the normal summer upswing.

* * * * *

THAT is the one extreme—the extreme of barbaric cruelty represented by the Hitler totalitarian regime in Germany and in occupied territory.

The other extreme—that of coddling dangerous aliens—is seen in the long-drawn-out processes by which the United States government has sought to make sure that no injustice shall be done to Harry Bridges, alien Communist agitator who skipped a New Zealand ship in 1920 to land illegally in San Francisco.

Year after year the Bridges deportation proceedings have dragged through courts and special investigations, monotonously and expensively—the most recent episode having been a ten-weeks' hearing in San Francisco which ended June 12.

After a deportation hearing in 1939, which lasted nine weeks, James Landis, dean of the Harvard law school, sitting as inspector, found that Bridges was "energetically radical" but said there was no conclusive evidence that he was a Communist. Secretary of Labor Perkins, at about the same time, concluded that "evidence submitted established neither that Harry Bridges was a member of, or affiliated with, the Communist party of the United States."

Now Judge Charles B. Sears, who presided at the San Francisco hearing, has submitted his report to the department of justice.

He finds that Harry Bridges, since entering the United States in 1920, "has been a member of an organization, association, society or group that believes in, advises, advocates and teaches the overthrow by force and violence of the government of the United States."

Judge Sears recommends to Attorney General Biddle that Harry Bridges be deported to his native Australia.

Also, on August 15, the house immigration committee approved a bill directing that Bridges be deported on grounds that his presence is "hurtful" to this nation.

But even this is not the end. There is still to be an appeal from the recommendation of Judge Sears and in the event of a deportation order being eventually issued Bridges will still have "the legal right to challenge the justice department's action in the courts."

An honest American citizen should have nothing to fear when it is considered to what lengths the government will go to protect the "rights" of an alien agitator whose record of radical labor leadership on the West Coast is blotched by blood and whose active association with the Communist party can no longer be doubted.

Brooklyn's Popular Dodgers

THOSE "beloved bums" of Brooklyn, currently the most popular team in baseball, and champions of the National league, tomorrow afternoon in New York's Yankee stadium will begin their attempt to capture baseball's highest prize, the world series championship.

Throughout the Dodgers' season-long hectic battle with the St. Louis Cardinals, sports writers over the nation have vied in inventing new and funnier names for the Flock from Flatbush, and in relating the latest funny stories about the eccentric "bums."

They laughed the Dodgers into popularity, but they didn't laugh them into the National league pennant. It took a fighting spirit, and co-operation between the team and Manager Leo Durocher, and between Durocher and the Brooklyn front office to do that. Whenever the Dodgers needed a new player, or three or a half-dozen new players, Business Manager Larry saw to it that the needed players were obtained. He left the management of the team on the field entirely up to Durocher.

A year ago the nation's sport writers were busy inventing new names to call the Cleveland Indians. The one that stuck longest was "cry babies." This followed a demand by a number of Cleveland players that the business office release Manager Oscar Vitt.

Cleveland had the same chance to win the American league pennant last year that Brooklyn had this year to capture the National league flag. Lack of co-operation ruined that chance.

State Treasury Bulging With Money

THE PROBLEM of what to do with Ohio's surplus money is bothering State Treasurer Don H. Ebright, who reports that $33,000,000 on hand will not be accepted by banks, even on a no-interest basis.

It is explained that this total represents $22,000,000 in state funds and that the remainder belongs in teachers' retirement and industrial commission funds.

Banks are so overloaded with deposits on which they can get little, if any, interest that they refuse to assume the obligation of paying one-twelfth of one per cent into the federal insurance fund, as would be required if the state money was accepted.

Just why the Bricker administration should be so stubbornly insistent on maintaining the present 3 per cent retail sales tax (which is in reality a 6 to 7 per cent tax on small purchases) is not clear. It is now quite obvious that this year's tax receipts by the state will be far in excess of needs and that a tremendous surplus is being piled up—yet Governor Bricker obstinately refuses to call the legislature into session to reduce the sales taxes or to sanction more equitable distribution of funds to counties and cities.

With the immediate and prospective increases in federal defense taxes, coupled with advancing costs of living, it would appear that state taxes should be cut to the lowest possible minimum, rather than that the governor should at this time attempt to pile up the greatest surplus in history—far above the needs of all requirements for economical operation of essential departments of state government.

THAT TOO BIG, BIG BUSINESS

Moving Ahead Despite Inefficiency

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Despite strikes inefficiency in high places, and lack of preparation when everybody ought to have known it was necessary, America's war machine is moving.

It will move faster and faster.

Leon Henderson complained that the machine tool industry is operating at only one-third of its capacity. This is not as bad as it sounds, because he was thinking of terms of three shifts, seven days a week.

According to the industry's figures, as of June 30, machine tool production was divided among the three shifts as follows: For the first shift (which might be called the normal work day) 70 per cent. For the second shift 25 per cent and for the third shift 5 per cent.

Obviously, at capacity, that second shift could be stepped up in the ratio of 25 to 70, or almost tripled, while the third shift could be stepped up in the ratio of 5 to 70, or multiplied by 14.

* * *

NO PRACTICAL manufacturer believes those proportions could be borne out. But there is a little leeway which might permit it to reach almost the perfection indicated. In the first place production as estimated in the 70-25-5 ratio as among the three shifts was based on six-day weeks. Thus by staggering the employment and running at capacity 24 hours a day, seven days a week, one-seventh more could be gained.

This might or might not make up for the lag involved in all manufacturing operations where attempts are made to speed up work by three-shift operation. A three-shift operation is never—or never has been—three times what a one-shift operation is. But it can be made to approach it, and with the leeway given by the additional day wonders can be accomplished.

Certainly, experts who know the machine tool industry tell the writer, production of machine tools can be doubled.

This is of the utmost importance as more and more factories are being converted from peace time to national defense business. All of them, almost without exception, need retooling. In fact, it has not been long since the real bottleneck of national defense was machine tools.

* * *

MOST of the plants now engaged on war orders have been retooled. The work yet to be done by the machine tool industry involves plants which are being completely changed over—for instance from electric refrigerators to armament.

But where is the labor to come from—the highly-skilled labor needed by the machine tool industry?

At OPM they use the word "explode," meaning not something destructive, but what the ordinary person would express by saying "break it into its component parts." That's a long phrase, so the OPM boys save time by saying "explode."

In this connection they are thinking in terms of what Henry Ford did in assembling his huge army of workers, only a minority of whom were good mechanics when they went on his payroll.

But by dividing any particular job into its various parts, and teaching the raw worker to do one small bit, the job can be so "exploded" that many green workers can be made very efficient in a very short time.

One optimist even predicts that in two years Uncle Sam will have put in motion a war machine equal to that which took Adolf Hitler seven years to build.

Saboteuring Love

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

JIM'S BLUE. Fact is—Jim's been blue ever since he began doing time in Uncle Sam's army.

"Doing time"—not a happy phrase. Sounds like a prison sentence. And that's exactly how Jim feels about the draft. No convict ever hated the jute mill more than Jim hates military routine.

"It doesn't make sense," says he, "takin' a fellow away just when he's gotten a start. Lookit me. Always wanted to be an architect. Never dared dream I could make it, though. Then I had swell luck. I found that position with Stanton & Briggs. Peg 'n' I got engaged that same night. Sure thought I was fixed for life. Then along came the draft—and here I am—everything smashed. Sometimes I feel so low I could bump myself off. If it wasn't for those letters from Mom and Peg, I'd go cuckoo."

"THOSE LETTERS FROM MOM AND PEG" . . . Jim honestly thinks they're life-savers. In reality they're poison! Every tear-stained line is loaded with loneliness, resentment, mounting fear . . . all the deadly makings of self-pity.

Small wonder that Jim becomes more discouraged and embittered with each reading. Yet Mom and Peg believe they're "showing their love" by such daily down-beats. They're not! They're maiming the man who needs their help . . . robbing him of his courage and pride . . . turning him into a traitorous weakling.

Saboteurs...Fifth Columnists ...every decent citizen despises those titles. loathes the creatures they fit. Yet—do thousands of doting mothers and sweethearts belong to their slimy company?

THE WAR DEPARTMENT THINKS THEY DO! . . . BELIEVES THAT BLUE LETTERS FROM HOME ARE LARGELY RESPONSIBLE FOR LOWERED SOLDIER MORALE.

Says Lt. Col. Walter M. Harrison, G. S. C., Bureau of Public Relations:

"Whining, crying, complaining letters from homefolk to men in the field do more to make grumblers than rain, heat, long marches and night alerts. We can fight bullets and bombs but there is no way to combat the secret, undermining effects of saboteuring love."

"THIS COUNTRY WAS NOT MADE BY WOMEN WHO CRIED . . . OR WHO ENCOURAGED THEIR SONS TO CRY.

"It was made by Spartan wives, mothers and maidens who gloried in the fighting independence of their men . . . who fought and suffered and often died beside them in the long trail they broke from ocean to ocean.

"Wherever American men went, their women followed . . . and whenever the man faltered or fell, the woman was there—not to weep over him but to reload his gun and uplift his spirit.

WALTER M. HARRISON
Lt. Col., G. S. C.,
Bureau of Public Relations.

Shall they? The answer's up to YOU—wife, mother or sweetheart. Which are YOU sending that lonesome lad—GUMPTION or GOOSE PIMPLES?

France is paying at the rate of 400,000,000 francs a day for the privilege of being conquered by Hitler. Hitler's expense in keeping France conquered is only 125,000,000 francs a day. Profit for Hitler—cost of France in doing business with Hitler—is 275,000,000 francs a day.

Free Mailing Privilege Abused To Help Nazis and Isolationists

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — One of the early prerogatives given to members of congress by the Founding Fathers was the right to send their mail at public expense. This was a privilege granted for the purpose of enlightening the electorate regarding their acts in congress, to defend themselves and also, of course, to help in the all-important job of getting re-elected.

This privilege has continued—and rightfully so—up to the present, even though a similar privilege is denied the men in the army camps, who appreciate mail more than almost anything else.

Last week, however, an FBI truck backed up to an office on Rhode Island avenue, previously exposed in this column as having Nazi connections, and carted a batch of documents down to the justice department.

In that truckload were the franked envelopes of various senators and congressmen, including the late Senator Lundeen of Minnesota; Senator Nye of North Dakota; Senator Worth Clark of Idaho, now investigating the movies; Representative Day of Illinois; Representative Sweeney of Ohio; Representative Tinkham of Massachusetts, and ex-Representative Thorkelson of Montana.

These envelopes contained speeches of the various congressmen, but the envelopes were unaddressed. In other words, the gentlemen who possessed this cherished privilege of free franking, had permitted it to be delegated to a Nazi-supported organization which could decide where the propaganda should be sent.

This incident emphasizes a situation frequently exposed in this column, wherein certain congressmen have passed along their franking privilege. At meetings of the Christian Mobilizers, American Destiny Party and other groups the franked envelopes and addresses of Nye, Wheeler, Reynolds and others were passed out free, to be addressed and sent "to a friend."

* * *

Franked Supplies On Hand.

THE Steuben Society's Unit No. 55 held a meeting in New York on June 18, and on June 13 it issued a letter to "Dear Steubenites," urging them to come to the meeting. As an inducement the letter said:

"At this meeting excerpts from the Congressional Record will be distributed to the members. The excerpts can be used to publicize our society to great advantage. They can be sent to our race and to others. . . . These excerpts are in franked envelopes, requiring no postage."

All evidence points to the fact that various German-American, pro-Nazi and other isolationist organizations keep a supply of franked speeches on hand, supplied them by the gentlemen of congress.

For instance, a few days after the name of Mrs. R. F. Nelson, Farmington, Minn., appeared in a Minneapolis paper, she received, unsolicited, a letter from Congressman Stephen Day of Illinois, containing the speech he delivered June 15, sent out with the cooperation of the Columbia Press Service which is now being probed by a federal grand jury on the charge that it is financed by German agents.

But the most interesting thing about the franked Day letter was that it was not postmarked Washington, or even Illinois, where the congressman lives—but Minneapolis. Congressman Day had sent a batch of his franked speeches to a propaganda group to be distributed—at the taxpayer's expense.

Likewise Senator Wheeler's frank has been postmarked from such an obscure town as Upper Darby, Pa. Senator Worth Clark's frank has been mailed out of Ardmore, Pa., Nye's from Omaha, and Senator Johnson of Colorado has had his letters sent postmarked New York to a professor in Texas—all done through benefit of one of the most abused of all congressional concessions, the franking privilege.

* * *

Economy Realists.

SENATOR GUFFEY of Pennsylvania met Mrs. Lionel Atwill at a reception the other day and introduced her to Vice-President Wallace.

"Mrs. Atwill," explained Senator Guffey, "is the daughter of Edward T. Stotesbury who was one of Philadelphia's great economic royalists."

"And the New Deal," shot in Mrs. Atwill, "has made us all economy realists."

* * *

West Behind Roosevelt.

AT FIRST the secretary of agriculture thought he had made a mistake in interviewing the beet growers. He had come to Salt Lake for pleasure, and the beet growers would be painful. But duty was duty, so Claude Wickard let them in.

They were a group of 30 men, and the complaint they made has not been equalled by anything in Washington. They complained about prices, about quotas, about labor, but most of all they complained about the importation of foreign sugar.

They declared the American sugar market should be for American beet and cane; to hell with the cane from Cuba.

Wickard squirmed. He wished he could get out into the great open spaces the West was noted for. Then something happened. A man rose to speak. Wickard's face relaxed, and the whole atmosphere was changed.

"Mr. Secretary," said the beet farmer, "we came to complain, but don't get us wrong. We got to gripe about sugar, but we're not griping about other things. We're with you, and we're with the president.

"Don't suppose," he continued, "that we're back of Worth Clark (isolationist senator from Idaho)! No sir! If he spoke out here today, he'd go away all spattered with eggs, and a lot of people wouldn't listen to him at all.

"We don't like war, but we're tired of argument, and we're ready to follow the president."

The entire delegation of complainers broke into a storm of applause.

Merry-Go-Round.

HARD-WORKING OPM Priorities Chief Donald Nelson has received some strange requests for priority orders. One was for pipe-stem cleaners to go into the manufacture of a bomber. Another, from another airplane company, was for 34 copies of the book, "How To Win Friends And Influence People" . . . High government legal officials are warmly commending an address by Federal Judge Robert N. Wilkin of Ohio on "What Is the Law." After reading a printed copy of the speech, President Roosevelt pencilled on it, "Excellent" . . . Wise-cracked Representative Wilburn Cartwright of Oklahoma, "Why does a red-headed girl always marry a quiet fellow? She doesn't. He just gets that way after he's married."

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The decision of Park Commissioner Moses to move the Aquarium from Manhattan to the Bronx was bad news for most New Yorkers. The old land mark has been a point of pride for decades, and transferring it from the city's best known borough to its least glamorous precinct may be the beginning of the end for a relic of a bygone age in New York.

For the Aquarium was once Fort Clinton, built by the citizens doggedly intent on keeping out sea-borne invaders. . . . Years after this it became Castle Gardens, a point of social festivities, and Jenny Lind made her first American appearance there. Later it was turned into a home for rare fishes and, as such, has delighted thousands of people each week who come to New York and tarry by its glass walled exhibits.

Commissioner Moses says he has no objections to the building remaining where it is if the city wants to put up the $182,000 necessary for its restoration as a fort. It is probable that no such amount will be forthcoming, which means, in the end, that one fine morning the wrecking crews will bear down on the old Battery Park scene and the cranes and sledgehammers of Manhattan's demolishers will succeed where the guns of enemy ships more than a century ago failed.

* * *

In rambling about the streets of New York for almost a decade and reporting its activities I have received communications from people in almost every one of the 48 states. As a rule, these writers were potential tourists to New York. Scores have asked about the Aquarium— what admission was charged, was it easily reached by subway or trolley, what were the hours—but not one soul has ever asked me "What about the Bronx?" The Bronx is one of the five boroughs of this city. It is the home of the Bronx Bombers—the New York Yankees—and Joe DiMaggio, and it is also the home of the Bronx Zoo. Commissioner Moses wants to put most of the fish and the marine exhibits at the Zoo temporarily. Why he wants to touch them at all is a question that many people would like answered.

* * *

THE Aquarium is not the first of New York's curios to be banished. Civic Virtue, that odd piece of sculptory which for years riled some of our sensitive citizens—probably because it represented a man with his foot on a woman's neck—has been exiled to Queen's, a sister borough of the Bronx. For years old "Civic" hung around City Hall and inspired both awe and delight in hundreds of thousands of citizens and visitors.

Now the Aquarium is to be evicted, and I am beginning to wonder whether Liberty, on her island in the harbor, or U. S. Grant, in his cupola tomb on Riverside Drive, may not be next. If the old general's shade continues to hover at the scene, it might be a good idea to drop Bob Moses a little note, and forestall, perhaps, one of those impromptu journeys that seem to be the new order around here.

The note might say, "Dear Bob, drop in at the Tomb and see me the next time you're up this way. I want to have a little talk with you. Nothing very important, but I like it fine up here on the Drive. After all these years, I sure would hate to wind up in some place like Far Rockaway, or Coney. Y'r. Obd't. Svt., U. S. Grant."

Looking Ahead

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

ALONG the narrow road where I rounded a corner on a rise, I saw, about 50 feet from the ditch, fresh dirt shoveled from the cellar of what will be a new house. As I drew near the shallow ditch several shovelfuls of dirt sifted down at regular intervals. The depth of the foundation and the pile of ground around the site concealed the worker.

I am always interested in new homes in process of construction, and especially in this one, since it was so high on a windswept hill. The view was wonderful. I could see the autumn haze on the distant hills for miles around.

I walked in on what I thought would be the drive, and climbed to the very crest of the smooth bank of earth, where I could look down into the excavated part.

A young man was working there in the center, with his face turned to the opposite side. I stood and watched in admiration the rippling muscles of his arms and shoulders flex each time he raised the shovel. He wore no shirt and his skin was tanned as dark as leather. Finally he turned in my direction, surprised to see a visitor already.

His black hair was wet with perspiration and beads formed heavily on his dark broad forehead and raced down his cheeks to drop off beneath his chin.

"It seems you're working hard," I said.

"No—not exactly. It's warm today, but I wanted to finish shoveling dirt."

"And whose house will this be?" I wondered.

"My own," he answered, and his dark eyes snapped and twinkled while his mouth wore a shy smile. "I'm going to have a swimming pool here where I drove those stakes. The furnace goes there, and the fruit cellar at the back, and that room will be a game room."

"But won't your pool be too shallow?"

"That's for the children," he rejoined without turning his head.

"How many have you?"

"Well, you see," he admitted, blushing, "I'm not married yet. Graduated from State last spring—in Ag—and she teaches domestic science. Her folks live just four farms from here. She took her course more to learn how to make a home than to teach. Dad sold me this forty acres for cash and I'm going to build our home myself from that timber lot yonder. We don't move in for another year."

"I certainly wish you luck," said I.

"Come round in a few years," he invited as I left, "and see how well I've planned that swimming pool!"

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

My father's arched eyebrows and his look of surprise distinctly infused with irritation made me realize how I had infringed upon his code by my interruption of Miss Whitlock's narrative. But, armed with what I deemed was necessity, I stubbornly went on.

"Forgive me for delaying things," I said, "but if Miss Whitlock's answer is what I think it will be, you will see that this interruption is necessary."

"Perhaps," my father said, and his tone expressed more doubt than did his words. But he gave a consenting nod to Miss Whitlock, and she promptly gave the location of the restaurant of which she had been talking.

"Blank street, between First and Second avenues," she said.

I tried hard to keep my voice steady as I turned to my father.

"If I am not mistaken," I said, "that is the restaurant where Mary and Stephen Redfield have been dining."

He sprang into action immediately, walking to the telephone, taking down the receiver, and giving the operator the number of the Ho l Lanstield. Then he beckoned to me.

"Take this, please," he said, putting the telephone into my hands. "Get Mary on the telephone, and verify your conjecture."

A Call to Mary.

He waited only until I had asked for Mary, then he shot a terse question at me.

"What made you think the restaurant was the same?" he asked.

"Because of that odd chicken and seafood dish Miss Whitlock described, "I answered. "Mary had raved over the same dish."

Mary's sleepy voice accented the period to my sentence, and I offered her a prompt apology.

"So sorry to waken you, darling," I said, "but the answer to t's question is vital. What is the address of that restaurant of which you and I were talking, the one where you ate that concoctio of chicken and seafood?"

"Blank street, between First and Second avenues," she said.

"Is there any other restaurant in that block?" I queried.

"No, I am sure of that."

"Thank you so much," I said, and she countered with a swift question.

"Is it permitted to ask what's brewing?"

"Not just at this time," I told her. "I'll tell you all about it as soon as I see you. Go back to sleep now. Good-bye!"

"That's a rash promise, Daughter," my father commented with a reproving shake of his head. "But as Mary is now in our 'inner councils,' I think your impulsiveness may be condoned. And I gather from your side of the conversation that your guess was correct?"

"Yes," I said, "it was."

"That is most—interesting," my father said, and only one who knew him intimately could have known, as I did, that this linking of the restaurant to which Lillian had made so bizarre a pilgrimage, to the scene of Mary's espionage upon Stephen Redfield, had stirred him profoundly.

"Please go on with your story," he said.

"There isn't much more of it," she answered. "We simply sat there, through hours that seemed interminable, while Mrs. Underwood watched closely every one who entered the restaurant or left it. And yet, I did not get the idea that she was waiting for anything especial to happen, or for anyone to come up and speak to her. It was as if she were an artist looking at a landscape which she intended later to put on canvas."

I saw my father shoot an interested glance at her, and knew that he was a bit surprised as well as appreciative of her imagery.

"She stayed there almost all night, didn't she?" he asked.

"Yes, right up until closing time," the nurse answered. "She kept ordering food and drinks which won the approval of the waiter for our continued stay, but which we did not touch. But when we finally left, we took only one taxi directly home, and I thought I never would get her here, she was so pitiably near collapse."

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Oct. 1.
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

A HIGHLY active and enterprising day is forecast, with major objectives or ambitions fulfilled. There may be much popularity and prestige incident to this, although it may be costly as to financial extravagances or indulgences. It would, however, be advisable to care for the physical condition and that of the family.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may have a very active year with things both business and private moving at high tempo. Promotion, advancement and financial progress are shown, bringing much prestige and popularity. This may call for much outlay of funds in entertainment or other extravagances.

A child born on this day should be efficient and talented for public popularity and influence will be enhanced by its warmth, good fellowship and hospitality.

Mouth Contour Is What You Make It

By MME QUI VIVE

Nearly every healthy small child has a mouth of attractive outline and ripe, red fullness. But life does things to these pretty rosebuds. We, ourselves, are often responsible when the lips assume poses that are nothing to brag about. The beauty wrecking, in many cases, is brought about by facial habits—emotional storms, lip biting, pouting and goodness knows what else.

Lips that are soft and relaxed are the property of the selfish, lazy girl. She feels sorry for herself, she hasn't enough gumption to keep the mouth portals closed, so they sag and create an expression of lassitude and discontent.

You are always hearing "she has a hard mouth." That tells a lot. Lips look as if they want to bite nails, above them are snapping eyes. Bossy women and naggers belong in that class. A change of mind and heart will restore good looks to a mouth that hasn't been given a fair break. A radiant smile can take the curse away. For a moment or two, anyhow. But the brittle, bossy girls seldom smile. It is against their principles.

It is a futile project to spend money on cosmetics and beauty treatment if one's soul has gone sour. Fragrant toiletries can't work against the heavy odds of unpleasant emotions.

The fibers around the mouth are tiny and delicate. Pull down the lip ends for a long enough time and the muscles lose resilience and tissues sag. Tiny up and down creases may form a border for the lips. That's bad. They make one look old before one's time. If the lips are always relaxed, they may thicken. Muscles that aren't used soldier on the job. The way to correct such a condition is to cultivate an expression of good nature and animation. A good exercise to strengthen fibers is to smile and unsmile. Do a broad grin, hold it for a second or two, relax and repeat. You'll look pretty silly when you're doing it, so retire to your own room and shut the door. The family will think you are daffy.

If a mouth has been slipping downhill for a number of worrisome years, it can't put itself in form in a hurry. But here is a treatment that will help if you keep at it:

Apply a heavy massage cream to the lips. Tap it in with the finger tips, smooth the flesh from lip centers to the tips. Work around the lip edges with a light, pinching, fluting movement.

Place the thumb at one end of the upper lip, second finger at the other end, first finger in the center. Keep the first finger stationary, draw up the lip ends until you form a Cupid's bow. Keep the flesh relaxed. Massage loses much of its effect if muscles and tissues are tense.

Use a lipstick that is oily, so the lips will look moist.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

HOW MANY MAJOR CARDS?

All players count their honor tricks in one way or another to decide whether they have a sound opening bid, or should pass. Those who are somewhat advanced will open on a lighter top-card holding if they have very good length in suits, and will pass as many as three top tricks sometimes if they have no suit length except a single four-carder. Still better players consider a third element, with hands which are on the borderline. How many of their cards are in the major suits? If a goodly majority of them are, they will bid a hand which is considerably shady in top strength, but if most of their cards are in the minors, they require pretty good honor strength, regardless of their suit lengths.

That deal was passed out at all tables of a duplicate game except one. In that case, a very fine player, who is known as one of the world's most expert and soundest bidders, was in the South position. He realized his hand was just under the usually accepted rock-bound minimums of inflexible bidders, so far as top honors were concerned, but bid nevertheless.

Note the assets he had in addition to honor strength. In the first place, he had splendid distribution, with biddable length in two suits. Next, if his partner did not fit either of them, he had protection in every suit for No Trump purposes. Third, his little cards were not particularly little, but were rather neat intermediates, very useful for pushing other cards into trick-taking positions. More important still, nine of his cards were in the major suits, only four in the minors. All things considered, that hand made a very sound opening bid. Incidentally, he made his 2-Spades.

Out-of-Class Activities Overdone

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

During the last two decades the idea of participating in numerous out-of-class activities has been growing. So have opportunities in this direction.

The school and college newspaper and public press have stimulated this ideal. Plying on the football or baseball team or being known about the school or college as a leader in ever so many extra-curricular activities makes good news items. These also afford interesting topics of conversation for students outside the classroom and an escape from worries over classes.

In most high school and college groups, excellence in scholarship alone does not get a student very far in the estimation of his school or college mates. The bookworm is not important on the campus.

As a result, many of the ablest scholars in high school and college are wearing themselves out trying to do too many things. With only so many hours a day at their disposal, they keep up their scholastic standing, if they do, by using hours for study that they need for sleep or relaxation.

Community Interests.

These same students are sometimes "drafted" by various organizations of the community. Usually the student in most activities at school is also in most in the community. While in the long run, his participation in community activities is of more permanent value than participation in activities at school, the larger pressure to be in many things and excel in them comes from the school.

The pity of it is that teachers at school and parents at home encourage the over-conscientious, over-eager, over-active student. All too many of these choice youths are breaking from overwork.

I wish we might persuade the youth in high school and college to use his head and not be carried away by temporary pressures for popularity. Then he would resolve to select one major activity and try to do well in it and not dissipate his energies over many. All else being equal, he should choose an activity in which he must work and play with a number of his fellows and learn to get along with them. Of course, if he only knew, he might grow most in this direction right in his classroom and regular school work, by cultivating the nice amenities of social grace toward other students, and always being considerate of their rights and feelings.

Just a small portion of the student body leads the activities and stands out in them. This very fact takes some of the good personal qualities from the lonely timid student who needs such experiences most.

Parents and teachers should by persuasion, and in some instances by coercion, see that certain youths engage in fewer out-of-class activities and that a much larger group of them participate in these activities.

STALLS SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION AT PLYMOUTH

Labor Shortage, Higher Cost of Materials Blamed; NYA Assistance Shelved.

Construction of a new grade school at Plymouth probably will be delayed until November because of a shortage of labor and the increasing cost of building materials as a result of the national defense program, according to the board of education.

The board may also have to reduce the size of the project, originally set at $67,000, eliminating the construction of a work shop.

Young men employed by the National Youth administration razed the old grade building and were to have helped build the new school, but so many of them were called into military service or obtained defense jobs that the school board has decided to complete the project without government aid.

Start of work on the new building will be delayed at least six more weeks while the board finds a private contractor to do the work and revises its estimate to meet the funds available.

County Superintendent Boyd Robinson said the Plymouth district had expected NYA help amounting to $30,000 in the razing of the old building and construction of the new one. With the NYA out of the picture, the board now must assume a part of that additional cost.

The district voted a $47,000 bond issue last year to provide the sponsor's share of the cost. Bricks and other materials from the old building will be used in the new building, Robinson said.

BARNES GIVEN U.S. CONTRACTS

Two New Orders Will Maintain Production Schedule To Jan. 1, Pryor Says.

Receipt of two new federal contracts for bronze castings totaling $31,429 by the Barnes Manufacturing company will enable it to maintain its production schedule until the end of the year, M. H. Pryor, president, announced today.

Pryor said that his plant shipped out the last part of a $78,000 U. S. navy order last week and that the new contracts would speed up work "which had been getting rather slow."

The new orders are from the War department and both call for bronze castings. One of the orders was for $17,987 and the other for $13,442.

Pryor announced that no additional help would be needed for the new contracts as the bronze castings will not be machined.

The company head said that he did not know to what use the War Department would put the castings but that the orders were accompanied with blueprints showing the specifications.

INDIAN ON SPOT

FORT WAYNE, Ind.—(U.P.)—George Bailey told the plant officials, but that didn't make any difference. All the other workmen were required to produce birth certificates as proof of American citizenship, and George would have to do the same.

George was willing, but he thought it was a little unnecessary in his case. George thought he is obviously 100 per cent American. He is a full-blooded Ottawa Indian.

NATIONAL CONGRESS OF PTA GIVES HINTS TO AID DEFENSE

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO—The National Congress of Parents and Teachers said today it was sending detailed instructions to 2,500,000 P. T. A. members to aid them play "an increasingly important role in the national defense."

The suggestions, contained in a policy statement issued after a five-day session of the congress' board of managers, embrace ten specific areas of service for the 28,000 parent-teacher associations. They are morale, cooperative service, health, nutrition, education, safety, recreation, aid to the boys in service, defense bonds and savings and volunteer service.

Among other things the P. T. A. groups were asked to:

Emphasize, through programs and study classes, "the necessity for unity and loyalty in the national defense."

Become familiar with the defense council of the state and community and "cooperate with emergency programs and defense activities in any way that will not weaken or limit the basic program of parent-teacher service."

Keep informed of any state or local plans for "evacuation of children," and "safeguard children from fear due to overemphasis of war."

Support a community recreation program for the men in military training.

The land and water area of the Netherlands East Indies is about equal to the land area of continental United States.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. JOHNSON

NEW YORK—As has frequently been remarked here, no independend columnist has any business allowing his name to be used in any high pressure committee—especially one designed to ballyhoo any particular war policy. The reason he hasn't is that he can control neither its membership, its policy nor the public utterances of otner members and yet, by reason of his name on its stationery, he is held responsible for all these things when it is his stock in trade, his daily business, to express and be responsible for only his own opinions.

My own name is on the letterheads of the America First committee when I permitted that use, its chairman was Lessing Rosenwald. Its purpose was to insist on prompt, efficient preparedness of American defense of the western hemisphere, on no involvement in foreign wars and in no aid to belligerents except such as comported with these purposes.

That was about the gist of the platform of both political parties, and the promises of both political candidates.

There were then other committees such as that to defend America by aid to Britain but as even its chairman, William Allen White, said it had no purpose to entangle us in shooting war. He said his slogan was "The Yanks aren't coming." All was innocent and comfortable enough just then but that was before the debate got really hot.

Later extremists on both committees took charge. Fascist and Politicos flocked to America First. Communists and hot-eyed war-minded men took over aid to Britain. Lessing Rosenwald resigned from chairmanship of America First and William Allen White from Aid to Britain. As emotions flared higher, half a dozen war committees grew up in greater or less imitation of the latter and some pacifist groups formed to out-do America First.

Col. Lindbergh, with whom I have repeatedly said I am not in agreement on strategic views, made a speech in Des Moines taht made a speech in Des Moines that than anti-Semitic and the witch finding senate sub-committee began "investigating" the movie industry.

Immmediately I began to be deluged with pressure in my mail and in some papers to resign from America First. I have frequently stated my position on that and criticized all these un-American, unfair and intolerant tactics. I have never participated in the councils of America First or voted on any of their principal policies for reasons stated earlier in this column and have informed them of those reasons. I am no longer either polled or consulted by them on policy or such matters as the recent declaration that Lindbergh is not anti-Semitic. As to that I don't know. I know his speech was.

But I am not going to be pushed around by hostile criticism which takes no account of these things. One reason I joined America First with a good deal of confidence was because with Mr. Rosenwald and his business associate, General R. E. Wood, my boyhood friend and life-long comrade at the head of it, I felt sure it was not going permanently haywire on any question of intolerance. I still hape that in the end it won't. As long as it does I shall have nothing to do with it. But I am not going to resign at the first barrage of errors and dead cats. I am used to them, and I am going to express an independent opinion regardless of that of any committee or group.

This is not the only committee on which my name appears. Among several others are the committees of award of the American Hebrew, the council against intolerance in America and Bundles for Britain. They never tried to influence my opinion and nobody ever asked me to resign from them. It would produce no result in either case.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Speaking For Myself.

I'VE always had a notion that if Noel Coward could bring himself to twist his elegantly bored features into the properly sad and silly expression, he'd be a dead ringer for Stan Laurel of Laurel and Hardy.

Kilgallen

But I'm sure that no matter what Stan Laurel did with his face he could never look like Noel . . . West Point cadets watching the Music Hall Rockettes drilling on the stage this week must be terribly humiliated. Those girls make any male precision outfit I've ever seen look like a battery of buck privates at Fort Bragg . . . I'll bet anything that you can't name the girl who was picked only a month ago to succeed Brenda Frazier as the Number One Glamour Girl. Brenda was to page one debutantes what Jean Harlow was to platinum blondes.

* * *

Nothing's so disappointing as those newspaper pictures of the Nazi spies. None of them look like George Sanders—or like any of the well-cast villains in the Hollywood espionage pictures . . . Dinah Shore's record of "Jim" makes you think of Helen Morgan singing "Bill." Jimmy Dorsey made a good platter of the same tune, too . . . Breakfast food at 10 a. m. rarely looks as much like a beautiful still life as the breakfast foods you see in those full-color magazine ads.

In a show with the complicated machinery of "Lady In the Dark," I think the stage hands should come out and take a bow at the final curtain . . . My favorite cane-carrier is Vernon Duke. I think only one man in 728 can twirl a walking stick without looking silly or theatrical. Only one in 494 can wear a bow tie with a business suit without looking just silly.

I hear people talking about skiing already. It's still September, and the girls are wearing their sable jackets hung lightly over their shoulders, their arms out of the sleeves, but they're skimming the slick pages of the fashionable magazines for winter sports resort ads, and talking about Christianas and parkas and ski pants.

Me, I can still think of less complicated ways of breaking an arm. Only fashonable woman in town who doesn't experiment with her coiffure is Mrs. William Rhinelander Stewart. She still wears her pale gold hair parted in the middle and drawn straight back into a knot; and she still looks as though beauty weren't something she tried for, but just something she couldn't help.

PARDON BOARD REVOKES PAROLE OF LORAIN MAN

Slot Machine Operator Loses Chance at Freedom After Stay Outside Prison.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The Ohio pardon and parole commission today revoked the parole of William Peer, Lorain slot machine operator, who had been released from prison by the state welfare director 27 days before the effective day of his parole.

Peer, serving a one-to-10-year term for bribing the Lorain county sheriff in 1939, was released from the London prison farm Sept. 15 to place himself under a physician's care for treatment of pernicious anemia, on orders by Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood.

Chairman Harrison W. Jewell of the parole commission said today that the 61-year-old prisoner told him he had not seen a doctor and had passed his time in tourist cabins and a Columbus hotel before returning to Ohio penitentiary Sept. 23.

The parole, effective Oct. 11, was revoked because of the prisoner's activities outside the prison.

"No such interference will be permitted by this commission," he added, referring to Sherwood's action. "No one except the commission and governor has any right to release a prisoner, and the governor declined to act in this case."

Commission records earlier disclosed how pressure had been brought on the governor's office and commission more than a year ago to obtain Peer's release.

Jewell said that after Peer's return to Ohio penitentiary last week he was called before the commission and reported:

That he left the prison farm in the company of a brother, Michael Peer, a Lorain real estate operator;

That he received the customary $10 and a new suit of clothes from the prison farm;

That he had done no work for the state during his absence;

That after staying at tourist cabins he checked into the Deshler-Wallick hotel, Columbus, shortly after midnight, Sept. 19, and registered for one day under the name of William Joseph of Cleveland, and

That he later stayed at tourist cabins before voluntarily giving himself up at the penitentiary.

PORTSMOUTH—(AP)—Two city patrolmen were wounded by gunfire early today when a prisoner jerked a revolver from one officer's holster and fired six shots before being subdued by one of the injured men.

Hamilton said Campbell, who had been held for intoxication, would be charged with shooting with intent to kill.

Downard was unlocking a cell door when Campbell took his gun and began firing, Hamilton said, adding that Setters did not use his own gun for fear of shooting Downard, so struck Campbell with a mace.

The husband and father, now unemployed, attended the trial but was not called as a witness.

A jury of eight women and four men deliberated seven and one-half hours last night and were asked by Common Pleas Judge Joy Seth Hurd whether there was any chance of an agreement.

John G. Walton, foreman, replied there was "a little bit of a deadlock" and asked "do you think there is any justification for one or two persons holding out?"

The judge read a court decision declaring jurors should "counsel with each other" and not be "stubborn or obstinate." Polling the jury, he found each expressing the opinion a verdict could be reached. A half hour later the verdict was returned.

Members of the police department have always felt that collecting receipts from parking meters would be an easy job. Yesterday Patrolman Clare Kyler had a chance to learn differently. Kyler collected the receipts as the city's traffic squad took over that duty from Lloyd L. Kochenderfer, whose appointment as collector expired last Thursday. Kyler reported to Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals at the end of the day with $500 in receipts and a very tired pair of legs. Then he went to the policeman's ball to give his legs a rest!

TOLD TO LEAVE AFTER STRIKE BY PAINTERS

Action Follows Curtailment of Production Under OPM Order.

(By International News Service)

DETROIT — Ten thousand employes of the Dodge plant of the Chrysler Motor company were sent home today and the plant shut down after what a company spokesman termed a "wildcat strike" of 400 men in the paint shop.

The spokesman, declaring that work on national defense contracts was not affected, said the plant would open for the afternoon shift at 3 p. m. if "the men want to go to work."

The company spokesman said that the men refused to work because 100 paint shop employes were sent home yesterday under a curtailed production schedule.

The paint shop workers are members of the UAW-CIO.

The company issued the following statement:

"Yesterday we were forced to send home 100 men in the paint shop because of the curtailed production schedule set up by the OPM.

"This morning we were informed by the remaining workers in the paint shop they would not work unless the 100 who were laid off yesterday were returned to work.

"They then called a wildcat strike without making any attempt to follow grievance procedure.

"As a result of this unauthorized action we found it necessary to close down the entire plant."

Beightler Calls 37th Fastest Unit In Entire Army

ALEXANDRIA, La.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, commander of Ohio's 37th division, asserted today that his unit had proved in maneuvers here that it is "the hardest hitting and fastest division in the army."

General Beightler said the Ohio soldiers forced their way through situations so difficult that the enemy had given up without a defense which apparently would have been useless.

The unit's motor equipment is "the best in the world" and the envy of the British observers with the 37th, he declared.

Division officers are using the 37th's record for speed to seek early clearance for the trip back to Camp Shelby, Miss. and the 43rd division from Camp Blanding, Fla., also has requested first movement from the maneuver area.

The Ohio regiments are assembling at Flatwood, La., to await orders.

General Beightler said a few weeks of training at Camp Shelby awaited the 37th to iron out a few deficiencies brought out in the maneuvers.

He would neither confirm nor deny a report that the division might be assigned to a new post in another part of the United States. He said the Ohio troops would not leave this country, however.

CHAPTER XIV

Just before noon the door bell rang and since Jason was out gardening, Lillian herself answered.

"Hi, Dickie," she greeted a drugstore youth. "Mother order something sent out?"

"Not her. It's for you. Personal. And I've already been tipped."

"Wait a minute, Dickie!"

Lillian was suspicious. She felt of the package, appraising its weight. Then she nodded knowingly.

"Take it back, Dickie. It's from Dallas Tower, isn't it?"

Dickie grinned.

"Take it back and tell him the lady refused it. If he won't take it, eat it yourself. It's chocolate candy, I know."

On that possibility Dickie departed. Lillian watched his bicycle going, and oddly she felt a little forlorn. Then she lifted her head proudly and began singing and humming with exaggerated casualness even though there was no one to hear. Mother and Baby Doll were both off somewhere, and old black Nora, the Mayfield cook, was back in the kitchen.

Mother and Baby Doll came in together while Lillian was talking to Dal Tower on the phone, half an hour later.

"I told you this morning I felt well, thank you," Lillian was still aloof and formal. "If I should need . . . Oh no, Dr. Tower, I am not angry in the least . . . No . . . no indeed . . . Oh, I'm sure you did . . . Hardly necessary to discuss it, I feel . . . Oh no indeed . . . Met her when you were an interne in Cleveland. I understand it, but I am not int— . . . I say I am sure you must have many patients who become your intimate friends, Dr. Tower. It isn't necessary to explain at all."

* * *

Baby Doll Mayfield looked quickly at her mother, started to giggle but squelched the urge when she saw mother's expression. Lillian hung up and turned to them head erect.

"I wondered if you were ever coming to lunch," she greeted with elaborate casualness again. "Nora surely has it ready."

They ate together as usual but the conversation was stilted.

Baby Doll sensed something, probed delicately, learned nothing. Even old Jason, white coated and formal now but still acutely sensitive to his family's emotions, frowned in worry at the uneven atmosphere here. "Eat yo'self some mo' of that good roas' pork, Miss Lillian, ma'am, else you'll be lookin' peaked," he ordered. "You ain't doin' you'self proud with this meal."

At 3:30 Thad Monroe came out driving a brand new automobile. Strangely, he didn't breeze in with automatic self welcome as he had long been wont to do. He began by apologizing for coming so early, lest he may have disturbed afternoon naps.

"I was up before three, Thad," Lillian assured him. "Good to see you." She smiled courteously, and it was spiritual manna for him.

"Thought you might like to go flying," said he, eagerly.

"Flying?"

"Sure. Airplane. Regular port here now, and four or five rent ships. May buy one myself some day. Come on, hunh?"

First, however, was the thrill of the new car. He made it clear that it was to be Lillian's own. She was touched, but sober about it.

Thad looked at her hand again and again. He disliked saying so but in truth he was full of interest and finally he did inquire.

"Flowers come okay?"

"Oh Thad! Of course. I am so terrible not to mention them yet! I simply—Thad, the ring was the most beautiful I have ever seen!"

It was enough. The young man's face showed satisfaction, pride, but in contrite haste now Lillian said more nice things. She could hardly have exaggerated about the magnificence of those roses anyway, and the ring was surely one to overwhelm any fiancee.

"Of course I couldn't actually wear it yet, Thad," she was saying presently, "if we intend to keep the engagement a secret, but I do thank you. It's just like you to be so generous and kind. Mother is thrilled pink, too."

* * *

He nodded. He wished he might stop his car here and now in broad daylight and smother Lillian Mayfield with loving. But—this wasn't California. This was East Texas, which is practically next door and in a way actually part of the conventional South. Or what Thad imagined was the "conventional South." The Mayfield girls and their types were never to be mistaken for easy.

"Sure, Lillian, okay, I understand," said he. "I just wanted you to have it soon. I'll be glad when I can tell people."

Lillian considered that and again felt an odd little sense of fear, unexplained. In a way, she told herself, all this was a sort of daze, far indeed from being the utterly delightful state she had always imagined an engagement would be. Thad Monroe was just about perfect, if it came to that. Four years she had known him and liked him. He was good looking, and infinitely kind, wealthy now and generous with his wealth.

He had already chartered a plane and a pilot, and together she and Thad had much to-do about her first flight.

"I'm surprised you hadn't been up before," he shouted once in her ear. "Most modern girls take to aviation in a hurry."

"I've wanted to," she yelled back. "I love it!"

Her thrill of the afternoon was all in flying, not in flying with the man she had agreed to marry, pleasant though his company was.

"There's the court house," he shouted again, pointing down. "And yonder the oil derricks. See that brown splash? The plowed field? The derrick right next to it was the first one—remember?

She remembered. Dal Tower had taken her there in a rush and she had shared with him a night of adventure. Even in retrospect that first mad week was exciting. She turned in her plane seat to pick out Buford Hill. There it was, a part of the living map under her now. There was the very clump of trees where she and Dal had been parked when the discovery blew in. Romance had been rampant in her that night. Romance and nothing else, nothing to disturb it until they heard the heraldic explosion.

She wished fervently that she might recapture that mood now. Somehow, though, it was elusive, try as she would.

* * *

She came home at sundown with a new concept of her town. It was astonishingly small viewed from the air. The oil field was a creeping, growing thing on two sides with little tenacles extending right into the main streets. The derrick on the church lawn, for instance. And on the old Dobson cotton yard where weighing used to be done. And new pipe lines right on the surface.

"I'll drop back at 8 o'clock, honey," Thad told her, "and thanks a lot for a grand afternoon."

"Sure, Thad. But I'm the one to say thanks. For everything."

He smiled, almost worshipfully looking into her lovely eyes.

"Do you suppose," he half whispered, "it would be within the bounds of reason to ask you for a good-bye kiss? The crepe myrtles screen us from the street. And after all, we are—oh HI THERE, Baby Doll!"

Dorothy had spotted them from upstairs and she came breezily out the front door. "Staying for supper, Thad? Please do."

"Sorry, small fry. Got to meet a couple of glamorous movie stars down at the hotel. They want my advice."

"You!" She jumped at him, pushing, scuffling, laughing all at once, happy in his big-brother comradeship but completely unaware of having broken any sort of romantic spell between him and Lillian. It ended when she had play chased him clear back down the walk again.

Supper was over at 7. The conversational atmosphere was somewhat better than it had been at noon. Baby Doll had girlish things to talk about and when she and Mrs. Mayfield learned that Lillian had been flying, a detailed account of that occupied time. Jason had to be told about the flying, too, although he expressed frank disapproval of it. Mr. Mayfield, it seems, had never flown, therefore Jason was opposed to flying on sheer principle.

At 7:15 Jason had to rock into the hall to answer the doorbell again and he came back to summon Lillian.

It's Mr. Dallas, ma'am. The young doctor."

"Oh." Lillian looked suddenly brighter, then distressed, undecided. "Tell him—no, tell him I won't see him, Jason."

Jason frowned at her, a severe old man.

"Miss Lillian, is yo' fully at yo'self, ma'am?"

"I know exactly what I'm doing."

* * *

The little impasse was prolonged in silence. For all her life Jason had been both her slave and master almost literally—in the peculiar sentimental relationship between white and black found only in the southland. It was a relationship based on mutual respect, even love of a kind, and both knew it. To hurt an old negro servant's feelings would be unthinkable. And yet, he actually was a servant.

"Tell him, Jason," Lillian half apologized, at least by a gentler tone, "that I am indisposed."

Jason finally nodded, but with obvious regret. "I does just whatevuh you says, Miss Lillian, you knows that. But I keeps my hones' opinion. My hones' opinion is that you is just actin'. Just actin' against yo' own heart feelings. Miss Millie, speak to yo' chile, ma'am! Somethin's done gone wrong fo' her, and me and you both knows it."

RECEIVE BILLS

West Side Property Owners Get Water Statements.

Owners of property west of Main street were receiving today water and sewage bills for the past six months. Fred E. Lingafelter, city water, sewage and garbage superintendent, announced that bills totaling $63,600 had been mailed out.

Water bills were responsible for the larger part of the total assessment amounting to $48,300 while sewage bills were only $15,300.

Lingafelter said that collections would start tomorrow and continue through Wednesday, Oct. 15. Persons not paying their bills before the deadline will be assessed an additional ten per cent, Lingafelter warned.

NO BIDDERS ON PAVILION JOB

Park Commissioners Shelve Proposal For Maple Lake Until Next Year.

For the second time in a month, city park commissioners were unable to get satisfactory bids for construction of a new pavilion at Maple Lake park yesterday.

A month ago only two contractors bid. One asked $2,600, which was $1,000 more than the amount set aside for the first step in the pavilion's construction. The other asked $2,200 and said that the bid could be lowered to $2,000 because the bricks to be used are larger than those ordinarily used for building.

Yesterday, however, not a single bid was received. The park commissioners gathered in Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton's to open the bids but found none to open.

The plans for the pavilion call for the construction of a basement with a flooring foundation covered with tar paper. The commission hoped to make an addition to the building each year until it was completed.

Commissioners now plan to let the $1,600 they have already rest until next year. They have asked for an additional $1,000 in the 1942 budget.

Unwillingness of contractors to bid was blamed on the unusual building activity being carried on in the city at present.

RING RECOVERED

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Dr. R. J. Woodward, Columbus dentist, who rescued James Alley, 14, from drowning in Buckeye lake here again has in his possession a ring which he lost in the rescue.

Dr. Woodward's ring was found in mud brought up from the lake's bottom in dredging operations near the rescue scene. The ring was valued as a keepsake.

LASSOES FISH

PASADENA, Cal.—(U.P.)—George Hapgood, ex-cow puncher, offers the world a new sport thrill—lassoing fish.

He was trolling, he said, in a motor boat at about 4 miles an hour between Newport beach and San Diego when his line jerked. He reeled in and found he had lassoed a 10-pound Bonita around the tail. He did not insist his former cowboy experience had anything to do with the feat.

COURT UPHELD

Appeals Court Sustains Jury Verdict In Damage Suit.

The fifth district appeals court today had upheld a jury in Richland county common pleas court in refusing Mrs. Hilda A. Coleman, Shelby, damages in her suit against the New York Central Railroad company.

Mrs. Coleman sought $2,900 for damages she received in January, 1940, when the car in which she was a passenger struck a flasher signal post at a grade crossing on West Main street in Shelby.

Her attorneys, J. V. Will and A. B. Mabee, appealed the case after a jury in common pleas court returned a verdict for the railroad last February. The appeals court heard the case here about two weeks ago.

Asphalt Paving Company Gets Contract on High Bid; Steel Included In Price.

Although its bid was nearly $800 more than a competitor's, the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company yesterday was awarded the contract for repaving Newman street between Fifth avenue and Orange street.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton announced that the asphalt company's bid of $9,532.70 won the contract for the project because it had included steel reinforcement of the concrete pavement to be constructed.

The $8,746.50 bid of Roger J. Au and company did not include steel reinforcement, Crafton said, and was therefore unsuitable.

City Engineer W. C. Statler said that the city's estimate of the project was approximately $10,000 and that curb and gutter construction will be included.

Property owners with land abutting the improvement will pay the greater part of the cost with the city assuming the cost of paving intersections and two per cent of the total.

MILK MIXTURE FOR STOMACH ULCERS

A recent medical discovery now being used by doctors and hospitals everywhere has proven unusually successful in the treatment of stomach ulcers caused from excess acid. It is a harmless preparation yet so effective that in many cases the pains of stomach ulcers disappear almost immediately after it is used. Also recommended for gas pains, indigestion and heartburn due to hyperacidity. Sufferers may now try this at home by obtaining a bottle of Lurin from their druggist. Lurin contains this new discovery in its purest form. Easy to take. Just mix two teaspoonfuls in a half glass of milk. Costs but little. Try a bottle, it must satisfy or money refunded. Lurin for sale by Weinberger's, Leed's and drug stores everywhere.

Louis Prepares to Enter Army After Stopping Nova

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Four of Mansfield High's remaining eight football opponents have now tasted defeat, but the other four, and they're the tough ones, continue to ride along on the victory wave.

The four undefeated Tyger foes are Massillon with a 6 to 0 win over Weirton, W. Va., and a 28 to 6 decision over Marblehead, Mass.; Canton McKinley with a 62-0 trouncing of Canton Timken and a 26-0 victory over Akron South; Springfield with a 32-0 win over Cincinnati Norwood and a 19-0 verdict over Columbus East: and Newark, with a 20-6 victory over Columbus West and a 12-6 Central Ohio league win over Lancaster.

* * *

All four take on tough assignments this coming week-end, with Massillon meeting Cleveland Cathedral Latin, Canton McKinley tangling with Champaign, Ill., Springfield meeting Ironton, and Newark going to Marietta.

Newark should beat Marietta which lost last week to Dover 13-0, but there may be some upsets in the other three games.

* * *

All their foes will play with hope
They spill the bucket filled with dope.

* * *

Of Mansfield's four remaining opponents, Sandusky took its second straight defeat at the hands of Lorain 26-12, Shelby suffered its first defeat at Willard 7-6, Fremont was edged by Tiffin Junior Order 13-7 for its first loss, and Cleveland Central was pasted 60-0 by Cathedral Latin, making a total of 100 to nothing that Central's foes have rolled up in two games.

* * *

All four were meeting tough opposition. Sandusky managed to chalk up 10 first downs to eight for Lorain, but penalties against the Steelmen helped account for that difference. Willard has its best team since the Langhurst era, and the week before held Ashland to a 6-6 tie. Tiffin Junior held Toledo Waite to a scoreless tie in its opener, and Cathedral Latin is still champion of Cleveland.

* * *

How tough you are depends a lot
On how much strength the other guy's got.

"A loyal band mother and Tyger fan," writes to complain that the Mansfield High band wasn't taken to the Elyria game, and that no effort was made to provide transportation for the band.

She feels that after the band mothers have routed their children out of bed at 5:30 a. m. for band practice at 6:30 three mornings in the week, the band should be given a chance to show the result of its ghost hour practice. She thinks the band should be sent on every trip made by the football team.

Most schools have a policy of limiting band trips to one or two of the big games. Arranging transportation takes a lot of organization, and cooperation.

Three Schools Continue Tie

League Leaders Score Decisive Tag Wins.

Prospect, Bowman and Newman schools continue in a dead heat for leadership of the grade school tag football league, each scoring victories in Monday play.

Prospect swamped West Fifth 19 to 0 as Swank, Bricker and Knell scored touchdowns, and Knell added an extra point.

Bowman walloped Carpenter 38 to 0 with Hunt, Ladd and Chamberlin each chalking up two touchdowns and Reynolds one, and Hunt adding three extra points.

Newman edged Hedges 8 to 0 on a safety in the third quarter and touchdown by Prichard in the fourth.

Western was held to it second straight scoreless tie by Brinkerhoff.

Brooklyn Even Shot For First

Yanks, However, Are 2-1 Favorites For Series.

By JUDSON BAILEY.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees are all set for tomorrow's opening game of the world series, with Whitlow Wyatt, the bald, squeaky-voiced Georgian, ready to take the mound against Charley (Red) Ruffing, veteran ace of the Yanks.

* * *

The managers of the two pennant-winners delayed announcing definitely their starting choices until after the teams had worked out again today, and Leo Durocher of the Dodgers said he might not select his first flinger until tomorrow morning, but from players of the competing clubs it was learned that Ruffing and Wyatt, the obvious choices, had been instructed to get ready to pitch the first game.

* * *

Wyatt, who became 32 years old Saturday, won 22 games and lost 10 for the Dodgers during their National League struggle and pitched most of their critical contests, including that which clinched the pennant last Thursday at Boston.

An American League castoff, he was one of the outstanding hurlers of the entire season. His prestige is so great that he may make the Dodgers an even-money shot to win the initial game starting at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow at Yankee stadium.

This will be Wyatt's first world series, but Ruffing, big 36-year-old right handed ace of the American League champions, has pitched in seven series games, winning five and being charged with one defeat. He bagged only 15 games this season, but was not used nearly as often as Wyatt.

* * *

A capacity crowd of about 70,000 was expected to jam the Yank's big concrete stadium for the first game, although the day was expected to be cloudy and there was a possibility of showers. In event of any delay, the subsequent schedule simply will be pushed back a day. As fixed by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis the first two games will be played at Yankee Stadium Wednesday and Thursday; the next three at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Friday, Saturday and Sunday; and if more are necessary the teams will return to Yankee Stadium for sessions Monday and Wednesday. The open date before the seventh game is to allow time to sell and distribute tickets.

LINEUP STARTS

NEW YORK—(INS)—Although the world series does not get under way until tomorrow afternoon, bleacher fans were already lining up at the ticket windows today.

NEW YORK AMERICANS MEET COLUMBUS BULLS

COLUMBUS—(INS)—With 25 former college gridiron greats on their squad, the New York Americans were in Columbus today to prepare for their clash with the Columbus Bulls, American pro league champs, at Red Bird stadium Sunday afternoon.

The Americans defeated Milwaukee in their first league tussle Sunday. The Bulls play an exhibition game tonight at Kenosha, Wis.

Buckeyes Face Tough Trojans

Southern Cal Reported Big, Fast and Rangy.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—There are no smooth stretches in the gridiron road ahead for Coach Paul Brown and his first Ohio State eleven.

Next Saturday's invasion of Southern California at Los Angeles stacks up as one of the toughest afternoon's on a tough Buckeye schedule.

Paul Bixler and Fritz Mackey, the two Ohio State assistant coaches who scouted the men of Troy last Saturday, rate the Trojans as one of the top teams on the West coast and say that they potentially have one of the nation's strongest elevens.

"They're big, rough and rangy," Bixler said.

* * *

"And furthermore," Mackey added, "they're at least two deep at every position, three at some and four deep at left half with little to choose among them."

* * *

Mackey and Bixler agreed that the four left halfbacks on the Trojan squad line up as four of the fastest and most capable players they have seen in football uniforms at one position.

For example, the fourth-string left half—Ray Woods—threw the touchdown pass in the last 17 seconds last week that enabled the Trojans to defeat a stubborn Oregon State team, 13 to 7.

Ahead of Woods is triple-threat Bob Robertson, Bob Musick and the great Pacific Coast Conference sprinter, Mickey Anderson, who played against Ohio State in 1937 and 1938 but who has been out for two seasons with an injured knee.

This is the way the rest of the Trojan team will line up, with the weight of each man in parenthesis:

* * *

The two Buck coaches agreed that the major obstacle the Scarlet gridders will have to overcome to stop the Trojans is the tremendous speed of Coach Sam Barry's squad.

* * *

Basically, the Trojans are following the same system used at the West coast school by the late Howard Jones. Bixler and Mackey reported.

The Bucks went through their workout today in preparation for the Trojan game. In an effort to inject more speed in his lineup, Coach Paul Brown had Les Horvath, fast 160-pound back from Cleveland, running in the No. 1 right half slot in place of Tom Kinkade.

The Bucks will leave for Los Angeles tomorrow morning and will take their first workout on the trip tomorrow afternoon at Stagg Field in Chicago.

Two Shutouts Rolled In Loop

Mansfield Savings Trust, Managers Blank Rivals.

Two shutouts were scored in the Club bowling league at Colony alleys last night as Mansfield Savings Trust blanked Lumbermens Insurance and Commercial Managers wielded the whitewash brush on Doherty Men's Frat.

* * *

W. Carr of Kiwanis rolled high total with 587 while Grohol of American Legion was just one pin behind.

* * *

Art Hilborn turned in high game of 232, and Carr smacked the pins for a 230 game. P. Mayer rolled 226 and Wertz 220. Grohol had a 214 game.

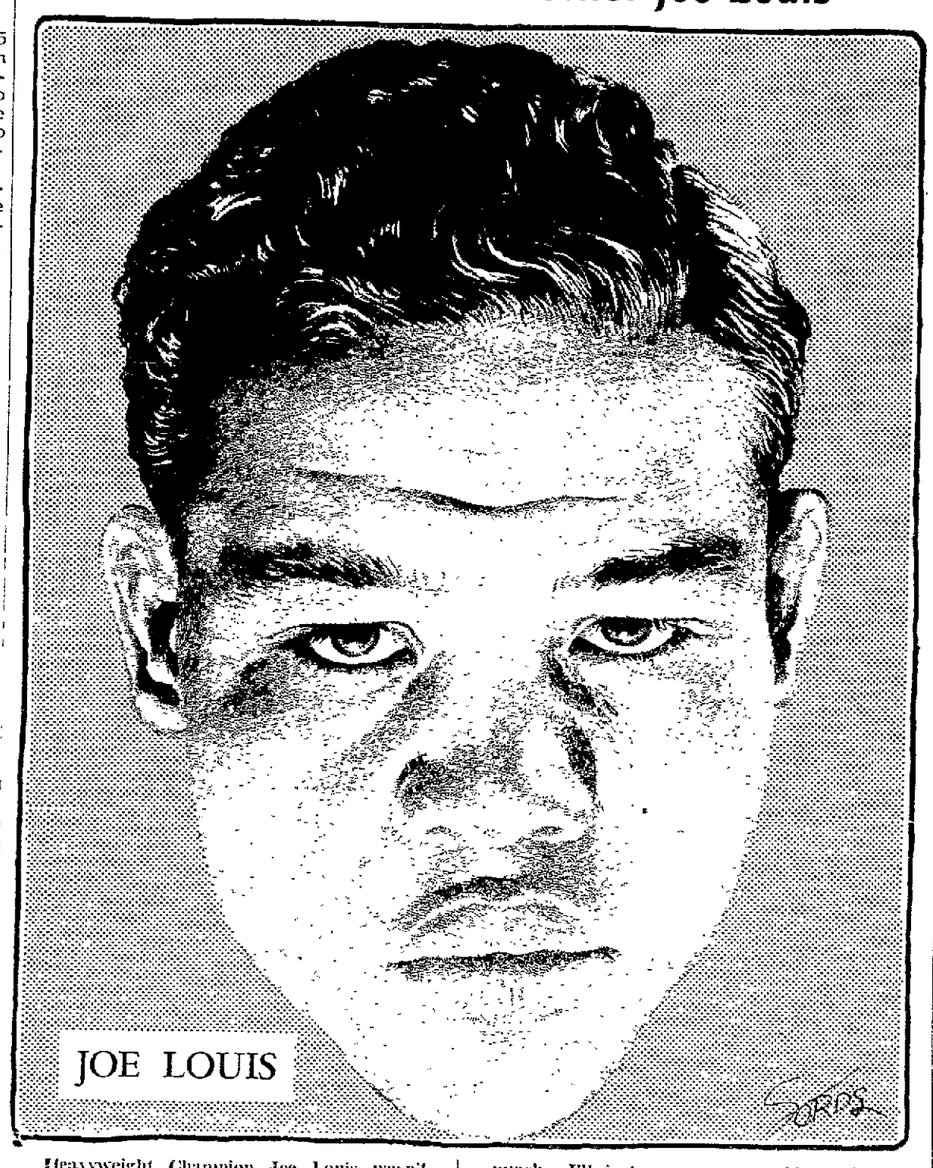
'Cosmetic' Punch Didn't Bother Joe Louis



Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis wasn't bothered a bit last night by Challenger Lou Nova's dynamic stance and cosmic punch. Said Joe: "I don't know nothin' about no cosmetic punch. I'll just use my same old punches, a right and a left." And it was a Louis right that carried the dynamite in the sixth round to floor Nova for a count of nine and set him up for a technical knockout a moment later.

High School Football Fans Start Paying Amusement Tax

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Today's big news on the scholastic front doesn't affect the players much, but it does hit every fan who buys a ticket during the remainder of the campaign.

* * *

Starting tomorrow every ticket will be subject to amusement tax—one cent on each dime or fraction thereof—so you'll have to pay a few cents more each time you watch the boys perform.

* * *

Under the new federal tax program effective Oct. 1, the exemption of all school functions from the levy is erased. In former years the schools were exempt through classification as "an instrumentality of the state," but those days are gone. Parochial as well as public schools come under the new tax law—so faculty athletic representatives are hurrying to arrange details of collection with internal revenue bureau attaches.

On the chalk-lined field the one-man laurels last week-end rested again on the brow of Canton McKinley's halfback, Jack Crider. The youngster scored two touchdowns and booted a pair of points to boost his two-game scoring total to 47 as the Bulldogs batted Akron South for the 16th straight time, 26 to 0. One of Crider's touchdowns was on a 55-yard run.

Massillon's mighty Tigers, state title claimants the last six years, scored a 28 to 6 win over Marblehead, Mass., for their 35th conquest in a row, with Fred (Pokey) Blunt getting touchdowns on runs of 49 and 22 yards.

Jimmy Robinson's Canton Lehman team, beaten only by McKinley, Massillon and Akron Buchtel since 1937, erased the Buchtel 1939 win with a 51 to 0 conquest for the proxy of the Ohio high school coaches' association.

McKinley meets Champaign, Ill., this week-end, while Massillon stacks up against Cleveland Cathedral Latin, champ of the lakeside city.

Xenia O. S. & S. O. home kept its long winning streak intact as Ken Pitzer, end, blocked a Xenia Central punt and fell on it in the end zone to win 6 to 0; Troy romped for 54 points against Tipp City, but allowed Coddington of the losers to gallop 80 yards for a touchdown with the second half kickoff; Portsmouth's usually-powerful Trojans, losers of their first game, were held to a 6-6 tie by Columbus North; and Cambridge blocked a punt and fell on it for the touchdown that beat Chillicothe 6 to 0 in a central Ohio loop contest.

Tiffin Junior Order loomed as the Buckeye league champion, after its opening 0-0 tie with Toledo Waite, and its win over Fremont Ross. The home boys came from behind to take the conquest. Toledo Libbey edged Central Catholic 7 to 6 to lead the Maumee city's six squads with two victories, and is idle this week.

Four Columbus teams, Grandview, Upper Arlington, South and Bexley, came up with their second straight conquests. Grandveiw smothered Worthington 37 to 0, Arlington beat Delaware 20 to 0, while South and Bexley gained 7 to 6 victories over Columbus St. Mary and Mt. Vernon, respectively.

Joe Morbito's East Liverpool team rolled up more than 300 yards from scrimmage for the second straight week to beat Akron West 37 to 0, with triple-threat Tailback Billy Green running 85 yards for a touchdown and tossing 35-yard passes for two others.

Zanesville lost a heart-breaker to Coshocton, 8 to 7. Zanesville with a 70-yard touchdown run by Jack (Speedo) Harris, led 7 to 2 late in the final session. Harris broke away for 80 yards and apparent marker, but the play was called back and Zanesville penalized 15 yards for holding. Zanesville was forced to punt, and Coshocton run it back for the winning points.

Circleville's "Pointless Wonders" of 1940 came through with their second win as they upset a favored Hillsboro squad 9 to 6. Hillsboro's coach substituted his left halfbacks 15 times, to no avail.

Champion Awaits Call To Uncle Sam's Service

One Right Hand Punch Was All He Needed to Discourage Cosmic Lou

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP)—If Joe Louis has fought his last fight, then the world can say goodbye to a fighting man the likes of which it may never see again.

The right that Joe laid on Lou Nova's jaw in the sixth round last night at the Polo Grounds, knocking the big Californian flat and preparing him for the technical knockout that came a moment later, was the sort of picture punch that a fight fan might wait a lifetime to see.

The big champion, now awaiting his call into the army, may never again deliver a single blow, with the precision and power of the one that paralyzed Nova's senses and shocked a great crowd of almost 60,000 that had been slowly warming up to what it thought was a fairly even contest.

* * *

A year of absence from the heat of championship fighting might rob Louis of the perfect sense of timing and the deadly kick that went into that one climactic blow. If that happens, then it will be something to remember.

* * *

Nova was close to the ropes, near his own corner, boxing confidently and well, waiting for Joe to give him an opening. Louis, his face impassive as ever, was shuffling about and getting nowhere, apparently. The crowd had been doing some booing, and the champion's most ardent followers were wailing that "He never looked like that before."

Then suddenly, and simply, it happened.

Louis feinted with his left and threw all of his 202 pounds behind his right. It struck the powerful Nova flush on the jaw and he dropped as if he had collided with a boxcar.

Though terribly hurt, Nova managed to gain his feet at the count of nine and to stagger into a barrage of blows. He shuddered under the impact of 20 or 30 cruel blows to his head and body as he sagged and floundered three-quarters of the way around the right before Referee Arthur Donovan stopped it, just at the bell. But that one punch had ruined him.

* * *

"I just forgot to duck," said Nova, almost cheerfully, after the wobble came out of his legs and he had reached the dressing room. "Joe's the hardest hitter I ever fought. I saw the punch coming all the way, but I couldn't get out of range. It must have been a beauty."

* * *

Ray Carlen, Nova's manager, was bitter because Donovan had stopped the bout with only a second remaining of the sixth round. He argued, with seeming logic, that Lou should have been given the minute rest period to see if he could come out and fight.

As it was, the worst the challenger had to show for the night was a slight cut on the bridge of his nose and a shattered dream.

"I still think I can lick any other fighter in the world," he said, carefully excepting Louis.

Louis, as usual, didn't have a great deal to say. He did say that Nova had not hurt him, but that had been more or less obvious.

Rams Polish Pass Plays

Slicking Up Pass Offense For Mt. Gilead Defense.

With one victory and one defeat behind them Madison high school's Rams got practice underway yesterday in preparation for a home game with Mt. Gilead next Friday night on the Madison gridiron.

"You've faced probably the toughest team in Dennison you're going to see," Coach Al Fendrick told the Rams, "and I feel you did a credible job although you lost."

* * *

Reviewing the game at skull practice, Fendrick said he believed the Rams should have had a brace more of touchdowns. One he said was spoiled by a bad pass from center and another because a back stepped outside while making a touchdown run.

* * *

This week's practice sessions will be spent learning a new shift. Up until now the Rams have been using a short kick without a shift, but now they'll shift from a "T" into either the short kick or a single wing.

* * *

Although Fendrick hasn't personally scouted the Mt. Gilead team, he says his reports show they have a tough center in J. Geyer. The Mt. Gilead center has a reputation even this early in the season for an uncanny ability to diagnose plays and nail runners behind the line.

* * *

"There's just one thing to do with this kind of player messing things up . . . pass," Fendrick told the team as he diagrammed new pass plays in preparation.

* * *

Physically the Rams are holding up well. After pouring it on for four quarters with a tough Dennison team Saturday no one is as yet out of the line up. Harold Hammer, who was injured slightly in the game, will probably be in uniform, according to Fendrick, and Joe Hartman, first string guard absent last week following his brother's accidental death, will probably also be in the Mt. Gilead game.

Fulmer and Margretha Fulmer," and the residue of his estate was willed to C. C. Bailey.

Fulmer died March 3, 1941. His estate was appraised in probate court at $14,984.24.

Navy's New Sky Giant Takes an Airing

THEATERS

Stage Show.

"Crazy Show," the Madison's stage show opening a two-day engagement Wednesday, is topped by Shaw and Lee, "mighty moguls of mirth," who have made a name for themselves in radio and pictures as well as on the variety stage. The two zanies appeared on the screen in the "Gracie Allen Murder Case" and "King and a Chorus Girl," and more recently were featured on their own radio program. The production also carries Frances Wills, "exotic dancer"; Jackson and Nedra, society adagio team; the St. John Twins, "aristocrats of balance," and Stan Lawson, "tallest of comediennes." Rolle Rolland presents one of the feature acts "How to Undress With Finesse." "Harmon of Michigan," featuring Tom Harmon, is the picture production.

Unusual Drama.

Spencer Tracy's performance of Robert Louis Stevenson's dual personality, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," now showing at the Ohio, varies from that of his predecessors. Tracy tackled Hyde as a man rather than a monster and presented him from the scientific viewpoint of the split-personality resulting from the effect of drugs on the human brain. As the scientist, "Dr. Jekyll," Tracy plays a kindly, humane person trying to understand the evil that predominates in some men. As "Hyde" he is a terrifying monster, the result of the scientist's experiments. Ingrid Bergman and Lana Turner play opposite Tracy and the cast includes Donald Crisp, Ian Hunter and Barton MacLane.

Gay Comedy.

"Kisses For Breakfast," a gay comedy dealing with an amnesia victim in love with two girls, opens Wednesday at the Ritz. Dennis Morgan plays a young man who is seized practically at the altar by the "other woman" and kidnaped before he has a chance to start on his honeymoon. Shirley Ross plays the bride, bereft, and Jane Wyatt has the role of the kidnaper. Louis Beavers and Una O'Connor are in the production. "They Met In Bombay," starring Clark Gable and Rosalind Russell continues tonight.

Hillbilly Adventure.

The Weaver Brothers and Elviry are amusing audiences at the Park in "Mountain Moonlight," a comedy which takes the Weavers from their home in the Ozarks to Washington, D. C., in quest of $200,000 which an ancestor loaned to the government back in 1790. The astute Abner doesn't let the politicians put anything over on him and just how he averts calamity furnishes one entertaining sequence after another. The co-attraction, "Adventure in Washington," also has the nation's capital as its setting. Herbert Marshall and Virginia Bruce are the co-stars, cast as junior senator and radio reporter. Gene Reynolds also has an important part as a senate page boy who "sells out."

Sea Thriller.

NOVEL GIFT

RICHMOND, Ind.—(U.P.)—A novel idea in the selection of the traditional "gift" by the 1921 graduating class has brought a welcome cash contribution to Earlham college's 1942 construction fund.

Twenty years ago, members of the class, wanting to make some contribution to the future of their alma mater, hit upon the plan of a 20-year endowment policy. The lives of the five youngest members of the class were insured, with an agreement that the class pay the premiums and the college be named beneficiary.
